COOK'S PROOFS ARE SAID TO BE VERY INCOMPLETE

DID EXPLORER FAIL TO REACH THE NORTH POLE?

MAY WITHHOLD DECISION

Copenhagen Correspondent for the Associated Press Says He Learns This Is Decision of Investigating Committee.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Dec. 18.—The Associated Press is informed by a high authority that the investigating committee of the University of Copenhagen in its preliminary examination of Dr. Cook's records failed to discover any definite proof that he

FIRST PHOTOGRAPH OF COOK'S ACCUSER.

August Loosse, who says he faked the date to prove Cook reached the pole, explorer, reached the North Pole.

Secret Meetings.

It is known that there have been many secret meetings of the constituency of the University and that one was held this morning when the preliminary report of the investigating committee was heard, which covered the first stage of the work of the committee.

Excited Discussion.

While nothing definite was given out by any of the members to the public it is known that the session

FORMER STEEL KING SWAYS WALL STREET

Henry C. Frick Astounds Financial Deposits By Great Coup In Reading Stock.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Dec. 18.—When Henry Clay Frick resigned the active management of the Carnegie Steel Company ten years ago it was reported that he was to retire from business and spend the remainder of his years in the enjoyment of his ample fortune. The report was far from correct, as events soon proved.

Tomorrow Mr. Frick will celebrate his sixtieth birthday and, so far as is known, he is still without any intention of getting out of active business. There are few bolder men in New York today and fewer still who wield such a tremendous measure of influence in the world of finance.

A great deal had been printed about Mr. Frick's achievements, his marvelous success and his rise to great power when he came to New York in 1900, but it was not until some years later that Wall street seemed to wake up to the fact that he was a dominant influence in the financial world.

It was just before his entry in the directorate of the Reading Railroad Company that Mr. Frick made his name more famous and showed that his power was second to none. Just about this time Wall street was experiencing a panicky feeling. There was a great bear movement on and the attack was made principally against Reading. For three days the market was completely demoralized. About noon of the third day there came the first gleam of hope. Reading began to shoot upward on enormous transactions. After the stock had recovered all its previous losses Wall street began to look around to find out who was the power behind the Reading throne. The news leaked out that it was Henry C. Frick, and that he had bought practically every voting share of the stock. By the coup in Reading the financier from Pittsburgh was credited with having increased his bank account some eight millions.

During the past few weeks Mr. Frick is understood to have added largely to his holdings of Reading Company common. His influence, it is said, is being exerted in favor of an increase in the Reading common stock dividend. He is also credited with some of the recent buying which has helped to advance the Pennsylvania group of stocks.

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY'S MEETING

Michigan Organization Plans to Interest Medical Societies in Securing Favorable Laws.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Lansing, Mich., Dec. 18.—The Michigan Anti-Tuberculosis Association held a well-attended meeting today. The association aims to bring about a thorough cooperation of the medical societies and other organizations in Michigan to enforce legislation bearing upon the tuberculosis problem and to secure new legislation.

TWO TRAINS WRECKED AND FIVE ARE DEAD

Both Chicago and Cleveland on the List for Serious Accidents.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Cleveland, O., Dec. 18.—Five persons are dead as the result of a collision between a Lake Shore passenger train and a switch-engine here today. Ten passengers were slightly injured.

Three sleeping cars rolled down the embankment. No persons were killed but many were bruised and injured by broken glass. A few of the injured, however, are seriously hurt.

COMMEMORATE WORK OF A LATE JUSTICE

Members of Supreme Court Bar Association Hold Meeting This Afternoon.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—With Judge Alton B. Parker of New York presiding and delivering the principal address of oration, the members of the bar of the supreme court of the United States today adopted resolutions commemorating the late Justice Peckham, associate justice of the supreme court. Judge Parker's address was upon the character and accomplishments of the late Justice.

RAILROAD NOW HAS INNINGS IN SUIT

Secretary of War Dickinson Appears for the Illinois Central Railroad.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

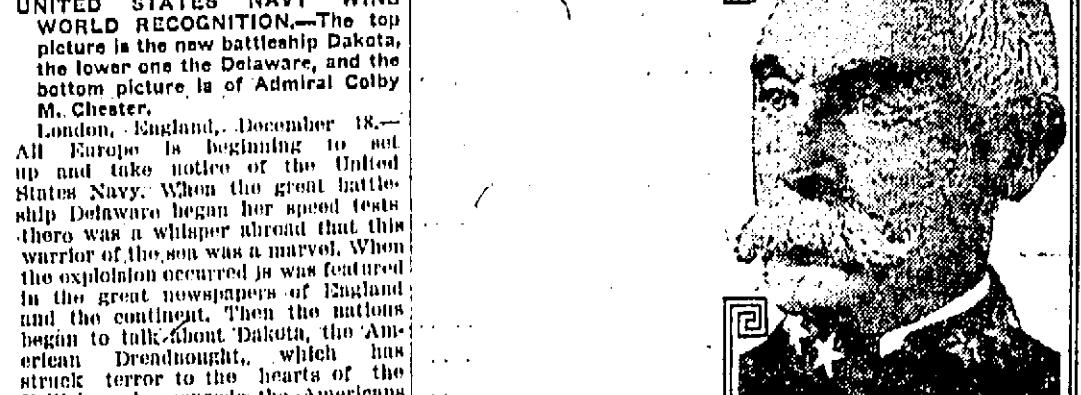

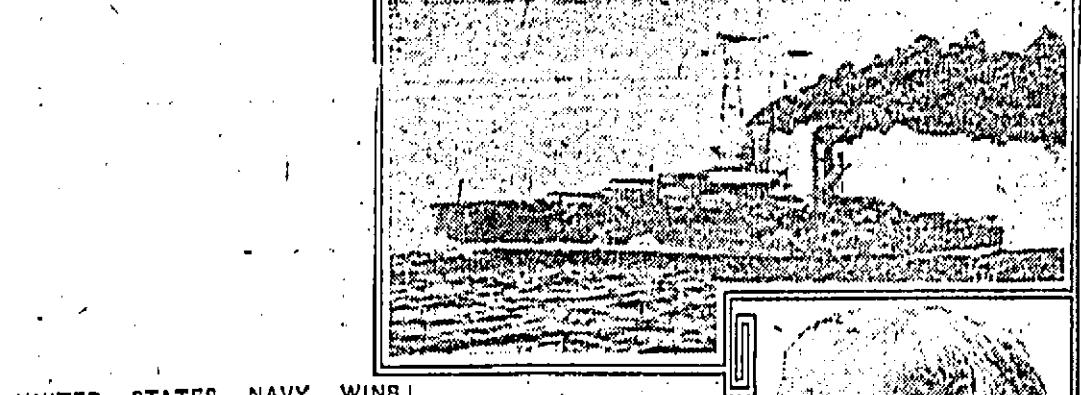

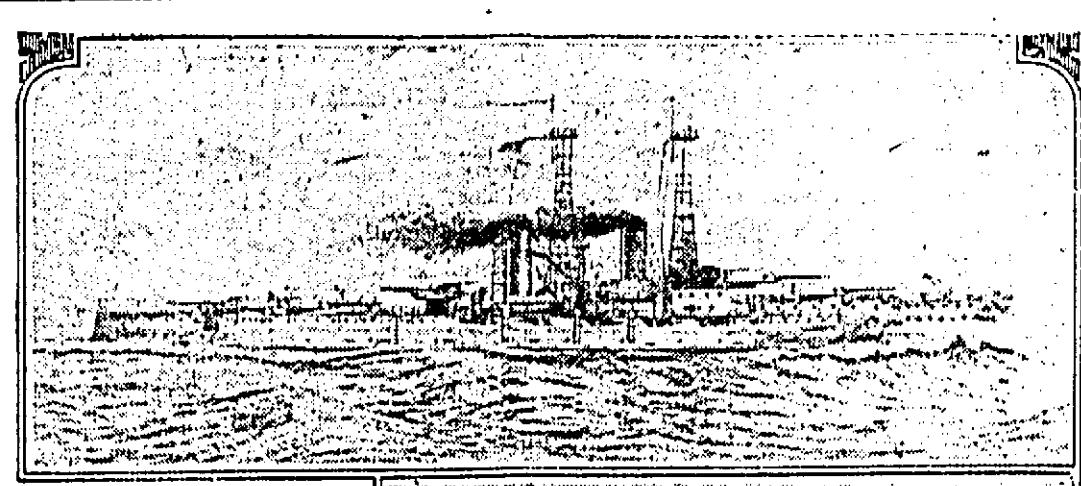

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 18.—The Illinois Central side of the tax case was argued before the supreme court today. Secretary of War Dickinson made the chief argument for the railroad, denying all the allegations made in behalf of the state.

Causes Comment.

The failure to receive a definite report of the investigation has caused the report to become current that the committee will make a report which will state that they do not more testimony and further proofs before reaching a decision.

Loose's Claim.

It is claimed by some authorities that the investigation committee have discovered the similarity claimed by Captain Loosse, who alleges that he helped Cook prepare faked data to present to the committee and that this is the cause of the delay.

UNITED STATES NAVY WINS WORLD RECOGNITION.—The top picture is the new battleship Dakota, the lower one the Delaware, and the bottom picture is of Admiral Colby M. Chester.

London, England, December 18.—All Europe is beginning to sit up and take notice of the United States Navy. When the great battleship Delaware began her speed trials there was a whisper abroad that this warrior of the sea was a marvel. When the explosion occurred it was featured in the great newspapers of England and the continent. Then the nations began to talk about Dakota, the American Dreadnaught, which has struck terror to the hearts of the British, who concede the Americans have builded better than they. When Admiral Colby M. Chester branded Dr. Cool a traitor, there was another thrill. The combined news events of the past few weeks has set the tongues wagging and interest just now is centered in the navy and the men who are doing things on the sea and on land.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Dec. 18.—Thomas J. Lynch of Cincinnati was elected president of the national league this afternoon. Lynch was formerly chief of staff of the umpires of the league. John A. Heydler, former president, was elected secretary and treasurer of the organization. The elections of Lynch and Heydler were unanimous.

FIND GOOD REASONS TO CALL A SESSION

Voters Will Not Have Opportunity to Decide on an Amendment.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 18.—A tentative agreement will be laid before the governor in January by the senate members of the special legislative committee on water power. This was the declaration of Senators Bird, Hurland Krumrey today. The members agreed to meet again in Madison on January 6th to prepare such a report. The assembly members, Ham-brecht, Gray, Kuhastu and Thomas may present another report or individual reports.

An important discovery which may prove a great determining factor as to whether or not the special session of the legislature shall be held, was made by the senate members of the committee yesterday. This is that the proposed amendment to the constitution authorizing the state to levy a tax of two cents of a mill on all taxable property in the state for acquiring forest lands and conservation of water power must be adopted by this legislature or it will entirely fail to the ground.

This amendment was adopted by the legislature of 1907 but the present legislature did not adopt it. After it went through the senate it was referred by the assembly to a special committee on water powers.

It is now pointed out that if there is no special session amendment it will fail for want of second legislative approval and cannot be submitted to the people. The senate members point out that this would be calamity as it might soon put a stop to the state inquiring any more for est reserves. Hence they consider it important that a special session be held. It is estimated that such a tax would bring to this work between $300,000 and $400,000.

ALLEN'S CONDITION IS REALLY SERIOUS

Ex-Banker Is Under Care of Physician and Trained Nurse All the Time.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 18.—Under the care of a physician and with a trained nurse in constant attendance, Phil Allen, Jr., lies in bed in his cell at the Dane county jail, a very sick man. He spent a bad night, sleeping poorly and, as yesterday, is in a state of nervous collapse. Dr. H. E. Purcell, the local government physician, made several visits to the ex-banker, giving him medicine and requiring careful regulations by the nurse in an effort to build up his shattered constitution. It was hoped the prisoner might be able to resume his testimony in the bankruptcy court on Monday, but this change has gone glimmering. Mrs. Allen came yesterday to be with her husband.

BROCKAW DIVORCE HAS SENSATIONS FOR THE PUBLIC

Husband and Wife Have Many Tiffs in the Court Room—$2,500 a Month Alimony Asked.

New York, Dec. 18.—Ten thousand dollars for messages sent to his wife while in doubt of her affections! This was the testimony introduced in the sensational divorce suit in the supreme court of Minnehaha, L. I. Mrs. Brockaw asked for $2,500 a month alimony and met every charge of infidelity brought by her husband with a counter charge that kept the jury wavering.

"The Woods of a Rich Wife," as related by Mrs. Brockaw, ranged all the way from threatened gun play by the rich husband to absurd inconvenience of Healy, the footman. Mrs. Brockaw blushed only at the mention of one "Dumpy" Wells, a Baltimore society youth. Great bundles of telegrams were brought into court. The most pertinent and interesting of all was the one which ran as follows:

"Darling—You know what I told you about, I'm afraid the doctor. If he tries to kiss me again tell him you promised to kiss no man but your husband. I put you on your honor. Wrote 1,000 kisses and hugs from me."

"YOUR HUSBAND."

The other important telegram in the case related to an entertainment in which she was alleged to have entered.

NEW YORK'S MONSTER MUNICIPAL BUILDING

Cornerstones Laid For Most Costly and Impressive Edifice in the Metropolis.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Dec. 18.—The work of constructing what will be one of the most costly and impressive edifices in the metropolis was formally inaugurated this afternoon, when Mayor McClellan, in the presence of distinguished gathering of city officials and others, laid the cornerstone for the new municipal terminal building.

The building is to occupy the triangular block bounded by Centre St., Park Row and Dame Street, at the Manhattan end of Brooklyn.

The structure is to be 200 feet high and the main building will contain 25 stories. Municipal offices will occupy the greater part of the building. In the basement will be a terminal station for Brooklyn Bridge trains and trolley cars in conjunction with a subway station. Chambers Street will run through the building, forming the only arched street in New York. The arch over Chambers Street will be three stories high. It is planned to complete the building within three years. The estimated cost of the foundation alone is $1,500,000.

UNITED STATES MARINES ABOARD THE TRANSPORT "DIXIE" ON THE WAY TO NICARAGUA.

New Castle, Del., Dec. 18.—Gala scenes attended the transfer of the United States marines from the stranded "Prairie" to the United States transport "Dixie." When the "Prairie" went around the dreams of the boys aboard were shattered. They had expected to journey to Central America and were wild in anticipation of a clash with Zelaya's forces. Today the transport is steaming toward Nicaragua laden with the happiest band of boys in blue in the service of Uncle Sam.

TRAIN SCHEDULES ARE DEMORALIZED

Through Passenger Trains Are All the Way from 1 to 6 Hours Late—

Freight Also Delayed.

Zero weather during the past few days combined with light snow that has drifted into the cuts, has made time tables about as useful and reliable as written instructions to a blind man. Both stations are sometimes packed up, hours after regular train time with passengers waiting for their trains, patiently or impatiently, according to their disposition. Ticket agents are kept constantly busy answering telephone calls from impatient patrons who wish to know how the trains stand.

To add to the discomfort of the employees of the road, every baggage and express car is piled high with Christmas shipments and the transfer of these causes delays at nearly every station. Slippery rails, drifts, bad connections and engine failures also do their share nobly in wrecking the time tables.

Almost without exception, passenger trains on the St. Paul were between forty and fifty minutes late today. On the North-Western this was exceeded in many cases by those trains that make long runs. Number 507, due here at six in the morning, did not arrive until 10:30 on account of leaving Chicago about an hour late and stopping at Caledonia Jct., nearly three hours. Train 514, due at 6:30 a.m., arrived at noon; 514 was two hours late; 506, three hours and twenty minutes; and 501 and 517 were about three-quarters of an hour behind schedule. It was found necessary to double-head train 507 out of Janesville this morning in order to make up time.

Engineer Wilke and Fireman Hackshaw made a fast run to Chicago yesterday morning with second 514. With a class D engine on a rather heavy train, they left Janesville at eight o'clock and arrived at the Wells Street depot at 10:15.

Engineer Dudley and Fireman Fleming went south on an extra at 3:30 yesterday afternoon with engine 1151 on account of pool crews resting.

Fireman Coen is on the six o'clock switch-engine today in place of W. M. Smith who is visiting in Chicago.

Fireman Dooley returned to work on the switch-engine last night with Engineer Townsend. Fireman Peterson, who has been relieving him, went off the switch-engine with Engineer Knutson in place of Fireman Ashley who is laying off on account of sickness in his family.

R. H. Erdman left this evening to spend Sunday with friends in Jefferson.

Fireman Mathison went south in the pool yesterday with Engineer Cochran.

Dispatcher Harry Look is laying off today.

Storekeeper J. P. Mason left this evening to spend Sunday at his home in Milwaukee.

Fireman Dalton is relieving Fowler on the Beloit run today.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Engineer Wilkinson and Fireman Rooney took out 105 this morning at five o'clock with engine 844.

Fireman Gentile is on the switch-engine today with Engineer Callahan.

Fireman Blahm had Machon's place on 115 yesterday with Engineer Grogory.

Engineer Cornelius and Fireman Hammel took out 91 this morning at 11 o'clock.

Fireman Daetweller was on the second switch-engine last night with Engineer Mend.

Engineer McCarthy and Fireman Seibert dead-headed out on 101 yesterday afternoon to bring in a train on the R. & S. W.

That means ice cream sodas and sundaes and candy and the theatre and carriages, when the weather is stormy, and sometimes when it isn't. It also means two or three suits of clothes a year and numerous other excess baggage. One suit will last a long time back on the farm. Conditions there, also, have changed for the better. The agriculturist no longer finds it necessary to get up before daylight and till until the last hint of sunshine has vanished. More than likely he begins to get real busy about 7:00 a.m., takes an hour off for dinner at noon, and quits at five o'clock, with just as much accomplished as in the old 14 hour day. ANTINORE
TALKING

At one of the local five cent theaters this week the inevitable survivor of the Cherry Mine horror, clad in full tunnel regalia and jauntily sporting a lighted candle on his cap, took anger listeners back into the inky inform and rather glibly allowed them to realize the terrors of homelessness, foul air, and gnawing hunger. The first one of the reciting party to reach Mr. Antinore had, Oh Heaven! praised, a quantity of coffee in his dinner pull! He who had tasted nothing more stimulating than coldham for three or four days lifted the precious tin to his lips and tasted! Zounds, Carumba, and Deafard! It contained no sweetening! Never, in a long, eventful lifetime, had he failed to have a little sugar in his, and he simply couldn't drink the stuff!"

At the top of the shaft the woman greeted him. She was crying as if her heart would break. "What are you bawling about—are you mad because I've come back?" he demanded roughly, clutching to himself, meantime.

Chicken Roasted High.
"Stung again, and this time on the lonesomeish, meindless little collection of chickens stowed away in a two by four hall up two flights of stairs" in tones of deep dialect several members of the large Janesville party who journeyed down to Beloit Thursday evening to see the poultry show expressed their opinions of the exhibition. "I've got a better chicken show in my back yard," said one. "Well," said another, "Beloit is too busy becoming a great manufacturing metropolis to do much in the entertainment line." "And the Janesville coops were the whole show, what there was of it," declared the whole party in chorus.

The advertisements will suggest what to give as gifts.

A hundred thousand shining wheels will go to Jeffries or the Smoke! The horny-handed toller feels that all these figures are a joke. Who would not join the fighters' camp? No wonder that the poet moans, and tries to change postage stamp; no wonder that the teacher sighs, and jars the shingles with his shrill, as he regards, with straining eyes, his

BUSINESS OFFICE OPEN SATUR-

DAY EVENING.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

It's not alone the strength you use Or the time you spend. If you don't enthusiasmAnd tackle your task with a cheery smile.Your work will never be worth while It's the spirit behind your brain andThat lightens the burden and lifts the strain.

—Herbert Kaufman.

Enthusiasm may not be the key-note to success, but it is an ingredient so essential that when omitted failure frequently results. The boy who rushes into the house, full of enthusiasm, may be the most troublesome member of the family, but he will be heard from later on.If energies are encouraged and properly directed he will give an account of himself, and if neglected he will be heard from just the same, for the spirit with which he is endowed is a restless spirit that will stay by him as a controlling force.His mind may be engrossed with all sorts of visionary and impractical schemes, but when he settles down to work energy will be spurred to beat endeavor, and he will find a place in the front ranks in any channel where his lot may be cast.Enthusiasm is ambition let loose.
Most people are ambitious to better their condition, but many fail because their aspirations are not backed by enthusiastic effort.One of the problems which has long confronted the industrial world, and which is yet in process of solution, is how to give the enthusiastic worker full swing without disturbing wage scales and upsetting old-time methods.In large plants, where a small army of men are employed the old "plea-work" system has been abolished for two reasons.First, the employer came to the very narrow and selfish conclusion that his "pace-makers," exports in the various departments, were making too much money, and so reduced the earnings of this class of enthusiastic workers by cutting wages.This policy resulted in general dissatisfaction because the man of average ability could not reach the output of the expert, and so suffered accordingly.Then the labor union came in with a wage scale which treated all men alike, and as this offered no induc-ment to be more than an average worker, the expert simply killed time and worked shorter hours.Now in most of the large shops men work from 8 to 9 hours on a uniform department daily wage, and there is no incentive to become expert.Injustice to the men, as well as loss to the employers, is at last fully recognized, and efforts are being made to remedy the evil.It has been found in many factors that the output could be increased from 25 to 30 per cent if the men could be encouraged to work to the limit of their capacity.The story is told of a machinist who had been in one employ for eight years. Starting in as a young man full of enthusiasm and ambition, he soon succeeded in going to the front as an expert workman.Then some of the older men advised him to go slow, as his work would not be appreciated, and he would domini-cate the whole department. Expertise demonstrated that they were right and so he dropped back to become a machine-man, admitting that he, with many others, could do their six days' work in from four to four and a half days, and were simply killing time because not encouraged to improve it.One factory, employing 3,500 men, was compelled to increase its capacity to meet the demands of trade. The management knew that the men could meet the demand if permitted to work, but instead of turning them loose built and equipped another factory, at a cost of half a million dollars, and all because of those nonsensical conditions.During the past year captains of industry and labor leaders have come together, and a system has finally been adopted, and is being tried out, which promises to remedy the evil.The plan is to establish a daily wage scale for the average worker, based on a certain amount of production, and to encourage the expert workman by paying him for what he does beyond the average that half of his excess earnings to belong to him and half to the employer.The Atchison & Topeka shops are working under this system, and report the most satisfactory results.It may seem a little unseemly, at first glance, for it is natural to assume that the expert workman is entitled to all he can earn, but the situation was thoroughly canvassed before the plan was adopted, and both sides considered.The employer is constantly compelled to add new and improved machinery to his plant, and the scrap hoist every year represents heavy losses sustained on this account.The addition of every improved machinery means increased earning capacity for the operator, and a large increase for the expert, fired with enthusiasm and ambition, so it was deemed fair that this excess should be divided.

It is gratifying to know that employer and employee are getting together on a basis of mutual understanding. Their interests are mutual and there is every reason why they should work in harmony.Enthusiasm and ambition should be encouraged. They are the main springs of action which prompt men to do things, and the man or the organization that attempts to handicap or hold in check is guilty of a great injustice.Enthusiasm is contagious. Someone has said it is the lubricator which makes the machinery of life run smooth. Any church which prospers has connected with it a little band of enthusiastic workers, who are never pessimistic.The success of any organization, whether social, political or commercial, depends upon the direction and support of a few enthusiastic members.The man who goes to the front in business must be inspired with the same progressive spirit, for, lacking this he will soon be left in the race.The enthusiastic man is never a tired man. He possesses confidence in himself—which is a mighty good asset—and fixness of purpose to realize his ambitions.He may make some mistakes, but he is never down and out. He is the man who meets you with a smile on a rainy day and cheers you with a courageous heart.Cheerfulness is necessary to his existence and he is always content to let the other fellow worry. It pays to be enthusiastic.

THE GAZETTE SLATE

Here is a list of names which the Gazette presents as possible candidates for commissioners, if the city adopts the commission form of government. They may not all be available, as some of them might not be willing to serve, but no much fear isbeing expressed about the danger of electing bad men, that it is refreshing to know that the city has plenty of good material from which to select.The list might be doubled in number, and then not exhaust the material.The paper is proud of the slate and believes that any three of the men mentioned would serve the city intelligently and furnish an administration which would be most satisfactory:

Thoughtfulness

Now is the season when consideration of others is a beautiful practice. If you want to do a real kindness to someone whom you love and who is dependent upon you, there is nothing more appropriate than to send that person to me.

Recently, a gentleman now a resident of another city sent his younger sister to me, saying: "You fix up the girl's teeth and send the bill to me."

OFFERS $25 REWARD FOR THE IDENTIFICATION OF THIEVES' MEAT BOARD

George W. Yahn Is Determined to Spare No Effort to Run Down Night Visitors at His Slaughterhouse.

The thieves who stole two hogs at George W. Mr. Yahn has offered a reward of $25 for the identification of this board, which is on exhibition at his butcher shop on West Milwaukee street. Chief of Police Appleyard and Sheriff Scholten ran down a clue which led into the country this morning, but made no important discovery.

EDWIN HEAD PASSED AWAY THIS MORNING

Well-known Resident of This City Died at His Home after an Illness of Two Weeks.

Edwin S. Head, who has been very ill for the past two weeks, died this morning at his home, 519 South Bluff street. Mr. Head was born in September, 1841, at Walworth, Me., but has been a resident of Janesville for about twenty-five years. He was formerly engaged in the tobacco business with his brother under the firm name of Head Bros., they using the large frame warehouse near the Milwaukee & St. Paul passenger depot now occupied by the firm of L. H. Carlo & Son. For the past five years, however, Mr. Head has been engaged in the insurance business.

Besides a wife he leaves to mourn his loss four children—Walter W., an insurance adjustor in New York, Rachel, Ellinor and Edwin, all of this city.

Mr. Head's quiet and unassuming ways, but sterling worth, won him a host of friends who will always cherish his memory and will extend to the stricken family their heartfelt sympathy.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, 519 South Bluff street, at two o'clock Monday afternoon next, and the interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

MISS MARY KING CALLED BY DEATH

Aged Resident of Janesville Passed Away This Morning.

Mary Agnes King, one of the prominent residents of Janesville, passed away this morning at her home, 17 Sinclair street, at eleven o'clock. She had been an invalid for the past six years, having suffered an attack of apoplexy, which caused her to slowly waste away.

Mary King was born in New York City, but came to Janesville in 1844 with her parents, when Janesville was but in the primary stages of its development. She was struck by lightning when a child, which caused total blindness, but her mental faculties were very acute and her nature was cheerful in spite of her affliction.

Her was a beautiful character which endeared her to all who knew her. Her sister, Miss Angie King, mourns an irreparable loss. She retained her memory and mental facilities until the last, bidding Miss Angie King of this city, who is survived by three brothers—Robert Wallace King of Brooklyn, N. Y.; John C. Hamilton of Brooklyn, Wash.; and Robert D. Hamilton of Buffalo, N. D.; three nieces in St. Paul, Minn., Angie K. Hart, Mrs. Dolah Hart and Mrs. Sarah West. A nephew, J. D. King, resides in this city.

Word has been sent to her brother residing in Brooklyn and the arrangements for the funeral will be postponed until word has been received from him. Date and time of the services will be announced later.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.</

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE WOMAN OF IT.
George Albert of New York loved Dora Stelmenauer of the same place. He told her so.

Miss Stelmenauer, a beautiful girl, did not reciprocate Albert's affection and told him so.

Albert was filled with despair, and he thought about the refusal until he was nearly crazed. Meeting the girl on the street, he threw acid in her face.

The girl's beauty was almost spoiled, and her eyes were enigmatical.

"The brute! The scoundrel such a man goes to the penitentiary the better. He ought to be kept there the remainder of his natural life to make sure he will not spoil the beauty of some other girl."

That is the man of it.

But strange woman heart! Miss Stelmenauer says, "Now I know he loves me."

Caring nothing for him before, she now says she will do all she can to keep him out of prison and if he does go she will wait for him and marry him when he gets out.

That is the woman of it.

If the girl does not change her mind and does marry Albert she will make a great mistake. A man whose wires get crossed like that would be a dangerous man to live with.

But—

The incident serves to reveal the gentleness of a woman's heart. And it shows that above all things a woman wants to be loved for herself. A woman may desire money and social position, and desire them very much, but she yearns most of all to be loved for her very self. She may harbor love for other things, but will always know she has cheated herself.

Affection alone will dispense the hunger in a woman's heart.

It is customary for men to say no man can ever really know a woman. They call her "the riddle of the universe," enigma, sphinx and other names. That is a mistake.

You can rend the most sacred secret of any woman's heart—by loving her, but you may clothe her in purple and the ribbon and put her on a throne as queen and she will never be satisfied until she is sure that some man loves her for herself alone.

Therefore I say it is easy to read the inscription on the utmost depths of a woman's soul.

And by the same token it is easy to make any woman supremely happy. How? Love her and prove it.

Improving on Nature.

By a Norwegian process, sap is forced out of green tree trunks and dye is injected in its place. This is claimed to give colored wood for furniture and finish that will not warp and is much more durable than ordinary wood.

Quest of the Age.

Get baby a "UNIVERSAL BOWL HOLDER" and things will change wonderfully—it will keep him nice and clean while eating. He cannot spill the food over the edge of the bowl, because the inverted edge of his new bowl prevents this. He cannot upset the bowl and spread the contents all over his high chair, table and your clean floor. He cannot throw the bowl off the table and break it, causing you expense and get another scolding. He enjoys his food more than ever before and also gives his parents a chance to do likewise!

You Ought to Have One For Your Baby, and do not delay, as it saves you money, and don't say a granite or tin dish will do, as it will not; and you are aware of the fact that when the enamel is worn off of dish that it is poisonous, and you do not relish the food yourself from tin dishes, neither does your baby, whose little stomach is much more delicate.

This holder is made very strong and durable and is quickly detached and can be used on a high chair, table or any place you care to feed the child. The bowls are handsomely decorated with the word "BABY" on them in gold lettering. The bowls are also inexpensive and in event you break one in washing, etc., can be replaced with small expense.

Don't lose sight of the fact that thousands of children are poisoned annually from eating out of metal dishes. Order one now and be safe. FOR SALE BY—

Suddenly her face appeared at the window.

"Darling," she murmured, "you will have to go without me."

"What?" he cried, hoarsely. "Why do you fail at the last moment? Speak, Miriam. What is it that keeps you back?"

The young girl buried her face in his hands. "I am sorry, John," she moaned. "But you have just left a note in my desk saying that I may have that new hat, after all."

J. P. BAKER'S DRUG STOREWOMAN'S PAGE*The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

DO YOU want to know a little trick that will help to make you popular?

Yes, maybe this is the 275th time I've written about popularity. But the desire to be loved and approved by our fellow beings—the desire to be popular—is one of the most fundamental of all the passions, so I think I'd be justified no matter how much I wrote about it.

Were you ever telling a story—perhaps your very best story—when something happened that completely cut you off?

Perhaps a new-comer arrived and had to be introduced all around and by the time this function had been performed, your story was completely forgotten.

And do you remember how upset and unusually deprivled and altogether abused you felt when that talk began again on other topics and you realized you had lost the chance to tell your perfectly good story?

Now, wouldn't you have been very grateful to anyone who had the thoughtfulness to remember that you were telling a story and the tact to gracefully refer to it and get you started off again?

Well, anyone else can be made grateful to you in just the same way if you are clever enough to watch out for chances.

The other day I happened to hear a little conversation between a girl who was obsessed of the insane idea of wearing practically the same clothes on a midwinter day as she would in midsummer.

In case there are any girls obsessed with that peculiar fad among my readers or any mothers of girls obsessed with that fad, I'm going to chronicle the gist of that conversation.

"It's an extremely foolish thing to do," said the doctor.

"But, doctor, I'm not cold," said the girl.

"No," said the doctor, "maybe you aren't. But do you know why?"

"Your body is manufacturing heat to protect you. The energy and vitality that ought to go into other things is used up in supplying the warmth that should be supplied by suitable clothing."

Have YOU energy to waste?

Can you perform all the duties that claim you and enjoy all the pleasures that await you and still have a surplus of energy?

If you can do this and have positive information that you will always be able to do it maybe you have energy to throw away keeping your body warm.

Otherwise not.

Next time you see anyone start to rub their eyes—whether it's yourself or someone else—tell them what happened to a girl friend of mine.

I am sure it will be effective for all feminine if not masculine offenders.

The girl in question carelessly rubbed her eye one day when it itched. The next day it itched a great deal more, the second day it swelled up and the third it closed up, finding her naturally at the doctor's office.

"An infection in the roots of the eyelashes," he told her. "No danger to the eye, but I'm afraid you'll lose the lashes."

And she did. And what more, she will probably never be able to bring them back.

Now, I'm sure that none of my feminine readers will ever rub their eyes again.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS.

By MARGARET DRYDEN.

A Suitable Hat Pin Holder.

Three pieces of heavy card board, grey suede leather, violet silk, and grey silk cord make up this design. The card board should be 12 inches long, three inches wide at the top the lower leaves, pale lavender for the upper ones and a delicate sage green for the stem and leaves make especially dainty gift. To do this rather thick leather must be employed and the colored silks applied with paste. Great care must be taken or the result will be messy and anything but pleasing.

SOME SUGGESTIVE GAMES FOR CHRISTMAS CELEBRATIONS

By ELEANOR ALLYN.

A white, crystal and silver dinner is a pleasant variety from the scarlet and green of the usual Christmas festivity. It is not too late to gather leaves that may be sterilized and blanched in weak sulphuric acid. After blanching dip in a solution of gum arable and then in diamond dust to make them sparkle. Some may be suspended in a strong solution of citrate of soda to make a snowlike deposit. These are arranged about a crystal mirror for a centerpiece. White carnations such as may be bought at the florist's, filled with white carnations and white leaves, float on the silver lake, bearing in their beads the ends of white satin ribbons which extend to the plates and are fastened to the place cards. From the chandelier the silver ruff or glitter, that is found at any store where Christmas tree ornaments are sold, may fall in profusion to simulate a fountain. All the tableware should be either cut glass, silver or white chin. The effect of white should be carried out in the menu as far as possible. A white fish course, meat of the white variety, with potatoes and cauliflower turnips, a white salad, the dessert of either pineapple ice or vanilla cream, and the cake and bon-bons all white. The souvenirs should be candy boxes simulating snowballs, filled with French creams. Instead of walnuts and raisins serve blanched almonds and crystallized pineapple. The mold should wear white also, and the white and silver idea carried out as far as possible in the decorations of the room.

Games for Christmas playing are usually of the old-fashioned variety.

Certain romping plays seem to be suited to the day of the children's outfit.

Older people, however, sometimes feel the need of more restful ending to a rather strenuous day.

A game for them may be arranged by cutting out of book catalogues and advertisements all the illustrations of books bearing the title in plain letters.

The late magazines are full of new and fascinating titles and the old ones all have a store that will add to the pile.

Each player should be furnished with a large sheet of writing paper, a pencil and a tube of paste.

Each player draws ten of the book covers, which should be carefully cut out, and with them he endeavors to make a sentence, pasting the cover on the sheet and writing words of his own between. The first one who uses all the ten covers, may draw more and go on with the task until the last one has his sentence completed. The one using the most titles may be awarded the first prize, which should be a late book. The one making the most interesting story may also be awarded a prize, and a little luncheon at the book store will discover a little pamphlet or booklet suited to the one who wins the hobby prize. As a sample of the way to weave the titles in here is an example: "The Baby's Records" of my hero shows "The Reader" that he was a "Sandy" little chap, always "True to Himself" and ready to "Do and Dare." For him there were more than "Three Speeds Forward" and more than "Four Roads to Paradise" and he tried them all. He spent "Ten Nights in a Barroom" but has no "Recollections of a Gold Cup Graduate" to record. The titles are endless and much personal history will enliven the game.

Work and Happiness.

God intends no man to live in this world without working; but He intends every man to be happy in his work.

Now in order that people may be happy in their work, these three things are needed:—They must be fit for it, they must not do too much of it, and they must have a sense of success in it.—John Ruskin.

What Grass Widow Means.

No woman need object to be called a "grass widow" on the plea that it is disrespectful. The term is from the French grace, the origin being "grace widow."

It is an old and honored expression and means widow by courtesy.

CHRISTMAS COSTUMES.

A beautiful costume was this of duchess cloth, having a wide collar of shantung. The coat portion was extremely smart and produced an effect of wrapping the figure, which was charmingly graceful. Fonthill braid of various widths was used as ornament, and frogs in self-tone—as was the trimming—closed the front. The sleeves were the new and pretty deep fitted cuff were the accent and puff. The skirt was the most popular winter model for walking costumes—having a fitted upper portion and killing flounce.

Everyone knows that Waltham Watches are as accurate timekeepers as it is possible to make, and yet there are a hundred accidents that may happen to a perfect watch after it leaves our factory. ALMANAC MAKERS
PREDICT FUTURETELL OF FIXED EVENTS FOR THE COMING YEAR.

DIFFERENCES IN YEARS

Three Methods of Giving the Exact
Date of the Coming Twelve Months.

Those almanac makers, who and grizzled, if they are grizzled, have some time ago finished their labors on the 1910 editions of their continuing story. The carefully edited and revised copy has gone to the printer and they in turn have printed and bound the books and huge shipments have been forwarded to the patent medicine dispensaries to retail drugists all over the country.

Now while probably most people of Wisconsin are looking forward to writing it "1910," you would be equally right in putting it down as "0023" or "5670," according to whether you are a Roman, a Jew or a Gentile. The figures 1910 signify the number of years that have elapsed, or supposed to have elapsed, since the birth of Christ, though there are some eminent authorities who assert that the date has been wrongly set, and that that auspicious event was not within several years of the year one. The trouble was that the date was set some years after Christ was dead, and there was no exactly accurate method of figuring backward and ascertaining when the infant was found in the manger by the wise men of the east.

Difference in Jewish Methods.

If, however, you write it "5670," that means that it is the Jewish method of reckoning the date, the basic event having occurred some thousands of years previous to the Christian era. To write it "6623," would be according to the calendar defined and ordered into general use by the Roman emperor Julian.

In other words, after Dec. 31, 1909, the new year will be not only 1910, but will usher in the 155th year of American Independence, the 62nd of the Julian period, the year 5670-5671 of the Jewish era (the year 5671 beginning at sunset on Oct. 3); the year 2663 since the founding of Rome, according to Varro; the year 2570 of the Japanese era, and the year 1238 of the Mohammedan era which begins Jan. 13. The year 1910 is classified under the doubtful letter "B" in a part of Latin Cycle II., Solar Cycle 16, Epoch 10 and Roman Indiction 8. That's what 1910 is, and the first day of January will be the 2,118,673rd day since the commencement of the Julian period. That's getting it down fine, even for an almanac.

Four Eclipses Next Year.

But the real interest in the almanac, perhaps, has to do with astronomical data: eclipses of the sun and moon, morning and evening stars, new and full moons, etc. The year 1910, according to the new almanac will have four eclipses, two of which, both total eclipses of the moon, will be visible to Janeville people. The phenomenon of a total eclipse of the sun, however, which occurs this year, will not be visible except in Australia and vicinity, and it is not likely that any Janeville people will care to journey to Australia for anything short of a prize fight. The eclipses given in the books are enumerated as follows:

Dates of the Eclipses.

1. A total eclipse of the sun May 8, "invisible" here but visible to Australia and a large area around that continent.

2. A total eclipse of the moon May 23-24, visible here; the beginning visible generally in southwest Europe, the central and western parts of Africa, South America, North America, except Alaska, and the south Pacific ocean; the ending visible generally in South America, North America, except Alaska, and the central and Pacific ocean.

3. A partial eclipse of the sun Nov. 1, invisible here, visible to a large area of the North Pacific, parts of Japan, eastern Siberia and extreme western Alaska.

4. A total eclipse of the moon Nov. 16, visible here; the beginning visible generally in Europe, Africa, central and western Asia, South America and eastern North America; the ending visible generally in Europe, Africa, western Asia, North and South America.

One of the two total eclipses of the moon visible here is timed exquisitely for convenient observance, but the other one will be visible only during the latter part of the eclipse, owing to the fact that the moon is partly obscured before it rises, getting above the horizon at 5:10 p. m., while the eclipse begins at 3:46.

The last of the galaxy of great men born in the year 1809 was William Evart Gladstone, the Christian statesman. His career was an epitome of the history of Europe for the half century before his death, and he was the leading figure in the greatest political, commercial, social and religious reforms since the era of the Reformation. The life story is of thrilling interest, not only to Europeans, but also to Americans, for public interests today are no longer of local application. The political and moral principles which Mr. Gladstone carried triumphantly into practice are of vital interest to us in the western hemisphere. The Rev. David Beaton will give a lecture, especially dedicated to the Men's Bible class, on "Gladstone" in the Congregational church Sunday evening next at 7 p. m.; and they extend a most cordial invitation to all interested to be present at this centennial address. Mr. Beaton was personally identified with Gladstonian politics, being president of the Gladstone Liberal League when a student in Edinburgh, and speaks from personal knowledge of the events.

THE RURAL CARRIER HAS MANY TROUBLES DURING THE WINTER

Farmers Should See That the Way to Their Mail Boxes Is Clear or Carriers Will Pass Them By.

During the past week heavy snow has made the work of the rural mail carrier particularly arduous and with reference to the service that it has been necessary to give Postmaster C. L. Valentine has this to say:

"During the past week it has been absolutely impossible to give complete service on several of the rural routes on account of the snow. If the patrons on these routes would interest themselves in opening up the roads where the drifts occur, or where the travel is light, it would enable the carriers to complete their routes. The approaches to the mail boxes should be cleared so that the carriers can reach them without getting out of their sleighs. Patrons want their mail and particularly their papers and a little work on the part of the patrons will help the carriers in their rounds."

If postoffice patrons on the rural routes find their mail is a little late or if some of them fail to receive any mail at all they should not blame the carriers. The first thing they should expect to do is to go to the box in which they expect to get the mail and see if the snow has been cleared away from it so the carrier can get to it.

The rural carriers have had more than their share of trouble in the past few days and many of them have found it a task of considerable time to get to the boxes. The snow has been piled up high about the posts where the boxes are fastened and the carriers have been compelled to leave their rigs and wade into the snow almost waist deep to get to the boxes. This has delayed them and in some cases has caused some of the carriers to quit their routes before they were done in order that they could get back to the office with the mail which had been collected for mailing out.

It is expected by the department they will be complainants and if these are made there are many of the carriers working from the local as well as other nearby offices who will have counter statements to make in which they will set forth that it was impossible to make their full trips on account of the piles of snow through which they had to wade in order to get to the boxes. The government intends that there must be easy access to the boxes for the delivery man as well as for those who go to the boxes to get their mail and if this is not supplied there is a good excuse for the carrier to pass up some of the places.

The rules of the service permit a carrier to pass up the places where it is impossible to get to the boxes easily, or if the roads are not cleared so they can make the side trips from the main traveled thoroughfares with reasonable speed.

The carriers have a twenty-five mile trip to make on the average and have a certain time in which to make it. If they are handicapped by having to wade through snow to make the deliveries they are late at the head end of the route and sometimes are compelled to turn back before they have completed the entire trip in order that they can get to the central station at their appointed time.

Postmaster Valentine has received a few complaints of no delivery of mail and some of the complainers have been those who have had the way to the boxes shovelled out, but the carriers have been held back by those who had failed to provide a clear path to the box.

CARDINALS VICTORS IN BASKETBALL GAME

Beat Fast Team Representing Co. H. of Monroe by Score of 26 to 11 at Rink Last Night.

One of the fastest and best exhibitions of basketball playing ever witnessed in Janeville took place last evening at the rink building between the Janeville Cardinals and the representative team of Co. H. of Monroe, the former winning by a score of 26 to 11. The crowd was the largest ever attending a basketball game in this city. The Janeville players had a little the better of it with regard to height and weight, perhaps, but the Monroe bunch were speedy players but were unable to throw baskets. Their strong point was in floor work, intercepting the passes of the Janeville men, and in passing. Janeville played a good game at guarding and made twelve baskets from the field to Monroe's two, but were penalized frequently for fouls.

There was nothing sensational about the first half except that the playing was rather rough, ten fouls being called on Janeville. Monroe secured the only points made by them on free throws and a gift from the referee. Janeville made five baskets from the field so that the score at the end of the first half was 10 to 5 in favor of Janeville.

The real playing in the game came in the second half, with Monroe substituted for Reynolds and proved to be the best of the Green County boys in floor work, but at the beginning of the second half he made an error which cost Monroe two points, by mistaking Monroe's goal for Janeville's and throwing the ball in. Trickle brothers also played well, making some fine throws for the basket. Both sides were greatly hampered by failure to judge distances on account of the hall, and hard luck in throwing baskets.

Beers was put in in Booth's place in the Janeville lineup in the second half and after playing about ten minutes Mathews had to be taken out on account of straining his ankle. Smith took Seznott's place, Seznott playing for Mathews. Smith put up a good game, his long reach putting down a number of high throws. Langdon featured in a long run the entire length of the floor pushing the ball along by dribbling and then throwing to the ball, and then running to catch it. He dropped it into the basket, then made a grandstand play, leaping into the air and bringing down a pass intended for a Monroe player and then neatly shooting the ball through the net. Trickle's trick of rolling the ball on the floor and his expertise in keeping it out of reach, fooled the Monroe squad.

The first thing they should expect to do is to go to the box in which they expect to get the mail and see if the snow has been cleared away from it so the carrier can get to it.

The rural carriers have had more than their share of trouble in the past few days and many of them have found it a task of considerable time to get to the boxes. The snow has been piled up high about the posts where the boxes are fastened and the carriers have been compelled to leave their rigs and wade into the snow almost waist deep to get to the boxes. This has delayed them and in some cases has caused some of the carriers to quit their routes before they were done in order that they could get back to the office with the mail which had been collected for mailing out.

If postoffice patrons on the rural routes find their mail is a little late or if some of them fail to receive any mail at all they should not blame the carriers. The first thing they should expect to do is to go to the box in which they expect to get the mail and see if the snow has been cleared away from it so the carrier can get to it.

The carriers have a twenty-five mile trip to make on the average and have a certain time in which to make it. If they are handicapped by having to wade through snow to make the deliveries they are late at the head end of the route and sometimes are compelled to turn back before they have completed the entire trip in order that they can get to the central station at their appointed time.

The government intends that there must be easy access to the boxes for the delivery man as well as for those who go to the boxes to get their mail and if this is not supplied there is a good excuse for the carrier to pass up some of the places.

The rules of the service permit a carrier to pass up the places where it is impossible to get to the boxes easily, or if the roads are not cleared so they can make the side trips from the main traveled thoroughfares with reasonable speed.

She was a brave woman. She could face the inevitable with courage, with a philosophy which now at last was Christian. She had had three peaceful years and a day of such happiness as falls to the lot of few of the children of sorrow. Perhaps that was all that she was destined to look back upon of joy. Perhaps the future held for her only exaltation. Perhaps she ought not to rebel against that possibility. She ought to be glad of such an opportunity, indeed. But she was a woman, and by and by she hid her face in her hands and wept.

In all their intercourse he had never seen her weep. Tears were entirely foreign to his experience. He knew what sorrow was, what sadness was, what sympathy was, for his heart had been torn when she had read to him the story of the Man of Sorrows and his sufferings. A child of nature, the pathetic in the Old Covenant and the New had appealed to him profoundly, but his were not easy tears. He had never shed any. He had never seen any. He was appalled, therefore, when approaching noiselessly he laid his hand upon her shoulder and saw and heard the evidence of her grief. He dropped the box to the sod and knelt beside her.

"You are right," she said, "my power over you has gone. I can no longer command. Mine has come to be the supreme will, but I beg you, I entreat you, I pray you, give me the flint and steel. See, on my knees I ask you!"

"We have been so happy together, you and I," said the woman. "This island has been my world, my haven, my heaven, rather, and you have been humanity to me, but now the earth opens before you. You will have other hopes, other ambitions, perhaps."

"Don't say it," protested the man, vehemently. "I shall have nothing, nothing but you anywhere, everywhere, and, besides, nothing is changed. See, the smoke grows fainter; the ship mors dim, she passes beyond. Things shall be as they were! We shall live on, and love on!"

Her desolation, her sorrow appealed to him profoundly. He took her in his arms. He laid her head gently upon his shoulder. There was protection and tenderness as well as passion in his touch.

"Together," he whispered, patting her hair softly, "alone, you and I!"

"For one delicious moment with closed eyes she let herself be so soothed and comforted. But her better nature woke on the instant, as it were.

"No," she said, drawing away from him gently, "it would not be right. We belong in the world of men. Men and women are not men and women until they have lived among their fellows until they have fought down the temptations of which we know nothing here, and have conquered them—out there. Give me the flint and steel. I must call back the ship!"

He stooped as she spoke and picked up the little silver box. He extended his hand toward her, and then suddenly drew it back.

"You cannot light the beacon," he said.

"Cannot!" she cried. "No, for I will not give you the flint and steel."

"You must give it to me."

"I will not. I am the stronger, and you cannot take it from me," he returned, with growing firmness.

It was the first time in all their intercourse that he had disobeyed a command. She looked at him amazed, her heart, nevertheless, throbbed at the mystery in his tone, at the thought

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles, A Janesville Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

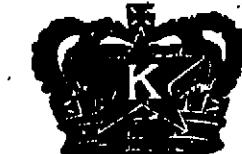

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Donn's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak, or diseased kidneys. Janesville people testify to permanent cures.

C. F. Lester, 1017 Wheeler St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I was in poor health for several months. My whole system seemed to be filled with uric acid, as I ached dull over and felt miserable. I had but little strength or energy, and my kidneys did not act normally. I decided to try a tonic for my kidneys, and having often heard of Donn's Kidney Pills, I purchased a box from the People's Drug Co. I felt better in a short time after beginning their use, and for that reason have no hesitation in saying that Donn's Kidney Pills are an excellent kidney remedy."

They cannot fail to see it." And how will they regard it?" As a signal?" And what will they do?" Turn about and head for the island?" And how can we tell what they are doing?"

KING LEOPOLD'S WILL IS FILED

LEOPOLD PRACTICALLY DISINHERITS HIS THREE CHILDREN.

$1,000,000 TO EACH CHILD

Monarch's Vast Fortune Left Almost Entirely to Margarita Spouse—She Is Likely to Be Driven Out of Belgium.

Brussels, Dec. 18.—King Leopold practically disinherited his three daughters, Princesses Louise, Stephanie and Clementine, as his will filed shows he divided but $3,000,000 between them. There will undoubtedly be a legal fight to obtain the king's wealth for his children, such as was made at the time of the death of their mother, Queen Hippolita. The exact magnitude of Leopold's wealth will probably never be known.

Senator Winer, the king's friend and confidential legal advisor, said that Leopold turned over a considerable portion of it to the Baroness Vaughan and her children, and created a stock company of his estates in order to forestall a possible raid upon them by the Princesses Louise and Stephanie or their creditors.

No Contest for Throne.

Investigation shows that the rights of succession to the throne of child of the king by the Baroness Vaughan is not worthy of serious attention. If it is established that the Baroness Vaughan is of foreign birth she probably will be expelled from Belgium.

The entire kingdom of Belgium mourns its departed ruler, Leopold II. Courts, schools and theaters are closed, parliament and the municipal council have adjourned and flags are at half-mast in every city town and village of the kingdom out of respect for the dead monarch. Under the constitution the affairs of the nation are in the control of the cabinet until Prince Albert takes the oath of succession next Thursday, the day after the funeral of his uncle, before the joint houses of parliament in the senate chamber.

King's Career Praised.

An official decree issued lauds King Leopold's career and declares his creation of the Congo Independent state was an act unique in history. "Posterity will judge Leopold a great king with a grand reign," it says.

The body of Leopold remains in the mortuary chamber of "The Panum." Tonight it will be removed to the palace in Brussels. The face of the dead ruler will not be exposed again to public view.

King Leopold's death, it was announced by Dr. De Page, was due to embolism, a small blood clot probably having carried to the heart.

President Taft Sends Condolences.

Washington, Dec. 18.—As a mark of respect to the dead king of Belgium President Taft called in person at the Belgian legation and left his card to the minister of that country. The president has sent through the United States embassy in Brussels a telegram of condolence on the death of the king of the Belgians.

Blame Leopold for Barbarities.

London, Dec. 18.—It is thought here that the death of King Leopold can have little effect upon the political situation of Europe.

All comment here lays at Leopold's door the responsibility for the barbarities committed in the Congo, and it is believed that his removal will be followed by new methods of administration in that colony.

Courtesy Lonyay has telegraphed for her husband to join her here. Princess Louise, also is en route, although Princess Stephanie has used every influence to keep her away. It is expected that Princess Louise will create a scandal, but the government has caused her lawyer to be notified that she will be put across the frontier if she exceeds her legal rights.

Neither Baroness Vaughan nor Princess Louise have anything to lose by notoriety and a public quarrel between them would be a boltting-funeral oration for Leopold.

It is believed the new king will make considerable financial sacrifices to buy off his predecessor's two errant daughters because the litigation which Princess Louise threatens would harm the dynasty.

JUMPS TO AVOID WRECK; DIES.

Fireman Falls to Save Life—Two Others Are Injured.

Elgin, Ill., Dec. 18.—Rear-end collision of two Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul freight trains at Piney Grove, 15 miles west of Elgin, resulted in the death of one trainman and injuries to two passengers.

Paul Stott, Genoa, Ill., fireman on an east-bound extra freight, jumped from the car when he saw a wreck was inevitable. His head struck a rail and he died instantly.

The injured are: H. J. Maloney, What Cheer, Ia.; J. M. Henson, Elgin, Ill.

The two injured passengers were riding in the caboose of an east-bound way freight.

Princess de Bagan Wins.

Paris, Dec. 18.—The court decided in favor of the Princess de Bagan in the suit instituted by her former husband, Count Henri de Castellane, who sought an order compelling the defendant to appoint a tutor for the youngest of their three sons, Jay, acceptable to the father. Castellane was condemned to pay the costs.

THE BASEBALL SPIKE AND ITS GREATEST EXPONENT.
Showing bottom of baseball shoe and Ty Cobb, the player whose bare running has done much to stir up the agitation against the spike.

Spikes.

This is one of the subjects that may come up when National and American league baseball magnates get together in New York Tuesday; for there is no phase of the diamond game that has aroused as much comment during the past two years which has caused as much comment. Since the close of the last playing season there has been a little let up in the noise however, the argument over the National league presidency and the discussion of the possibilities of lessening the dangers of football coming up as furnishing of fall and early winter gossip.

But you remember the noise that was made over the death-dealing spikes late in the playing season, when Ty Cobb dug the steel into Third Baseman Baker of the Athletics, putting this player out of the game for a time at a critical point in the pennant race. Then came the subsequent splitting of Baker by Cobb in the next clash of the Detroit and Philadelphia.

All this brought up the matter of baseball spikes with renewed interest and many of the powers of baseball were ready to tell how the evil could be remedied. Some magnates came out with the suggestion that the rules committee frame a rule whereby a player would be called out if he should step into a bug hole first. Other suggestions have also been made to do away with spikes altogether, and find some substitute, such as the cleats used in football.

But when all is said and done where can you find a substitute for the spikes? Surely not football cleats. It is a practice among ball players to file their spikes making them as sharp as possible. Now this is not done with the intention of intimidating any player or cutting an opposition player. It is done for the player's own interest in the development of speed and to reserve his feet. The sharper the spikes the less resistance there is when it is dug into the ground. And this is just why football cleats would not work in baseball. The leather cannot be brought to an edge at which it will not offer resistance to the turf. Now what would happen to a baseball team wearing the leather cleats?

In side of two months every player would be so stowed up that the hospital lists would be larger than should the spikes be permitted. Instead of "cold feet," the popular malady would be "bare feet."

What is true of the football cleat also applies to the rubber knobs or anything else that might be suggested.

Take away the spikes and baseball would be robbed of many of its most brilliant features. Base running would be reduced to a minimum while sensational fielding would be a thing of the past. Plays that are now possible would never be pulled off. Baseball without spikes would be a failure. Then if the spikes are to be retained what is the remedy? Surely not the head first slide for under such conditions the runner would now be placed in a worse position than the baseman is now. The defensive player would block off a man with his knee without danger to himself and where there is now an occasion cutting broken neck, collar bones and such injuries would be common.

The spike is a big problem. In baseball, but there is little chance to temper with the steel and its use, it will take a wise man indeed to devise a rule that will fulfill the purpose for which it is intended, namely of protecting players without spoiling the game.

Sleighing All the Year.

Because of the flocks which grow abundantly on the stone-paved streets in Madeira, making them slippery, it is possible to use sleighs the year around.

A Theory.

City Man—I wonder if Adam had any regrets when he left the Garden of Eden?

Urbanite—It's a safe bet he didn't if he tried to raise his own vegetables.

Best Way to Tie Shoe-Laces.
A way to keep shoe-laces tied is to make a bow in the ordinary way, then insert a buttonhook underneath the center of the bow and draw one loop and one end through (underneath), thus turning the bow practically upside down. Or draw one loop through the other and pull the "answering" end, so that the loops are knotted.

Every intelligent young man and woman admits that a Business Education pays and that it is really the foundation for success in life. A thorough knowledge of business is a great help in all lines of human endeavor. It is useful to all classes, the farmer, the laborer, the doctor, the lawyer, the teacher, and especially useful to the business man, banker, or manufacturer. There is a great demand for trained bookkeepers, stenographers, cashiers and clerks, and their advancement is certain if they are properly qualified. Far-sighted young men and women of today are attracted by the excellent opportunities offered in the business world. The well-equipped graduates command the confidence of their employers. They stick, stand the test, get paying salaries and hold permanent positions with a good future.

W. W. DALE, President.

HERE'S WHAT SOME OF OUR YOUNG PEOPLE HAVE DONE

An orphan girl, who quit the common school in the eighth grade and worked out some time, took our shorthand course and graduated in a few months. Today she is earning $75 a month with a Chicago firm.

Another young lady took our shorthand course, working for her board in the meantime. She is now Principal of the Shorthand Department in a College in the South, although not yet 21 years old.

We found a young man piling lumber at $1 a day. In 9 months he finished our Combined Course in Bookkeeping and Shorthand and is today earning $18 a week with a large house in another city.

Another young man called to see us, who had been working in a wagon factory. He completed our business course in 5 months and today is drawing a salary of $20 a week and expenses, after only a few months' experience.

One of our young men after completing a full course in our Business and Stenographic departments secured a good position at $90 a month with a large real estate and insurance firm in the west. Recently he qualified for a position as Court Reporter paying $4,000 a year.

Dozens of public school teachers in the past few years have decided to leave off teaching and secure a business education. Every one of them secured positions at a higher initial salary than they ever received after years of teaching.

We could mention hundreds of instances if space would permit. Enough has been said to prove that a Business Education can be gotten in a shorter time, will cost less, and in the end pay a bigger salary and afford easier and better opportunities than any other kind of education.

But your success is going to depend in a large measure on the kind of business education you secure. There are many schools advertising extensive business courses which are wholly impractical, and a student after completing such a course finds himself unable to hold any position of responsibility. Numerous graduates of other business schools have taken courses with us, because they found themselves unable to hold good positions.

Graduates of the Southern Wisconsin Business College Make Good

We have the signed endorsements of the best business firms in Janesville and elsewhere, who know our work and who employ the students and graduates whom we have trained.

There is a vast difference in Business Colleges, as in everything else. Unless we are able to convince prospective patrons of our superior facilities and methods, and our ability to make good every representation, we do not expect their patronage.

Our Teachers

Are men of wide education and experience besides having that special training in the branches of which each has charge. In addition every teacher has had a practical office training, thus every student is sure of learning business as it is practiced.

Our Equipment

No matter how good the teacher he cannot make up for poor or inadequate equipment. The best Business Schools throughout the country are equipped with every practical office device including adding machines, writerpresses, etc. In this respect the S. W. B. C. stands alone as the only business school in Southern Wisconsin possessing a modern equipment.

Our Courses of Study

Are modern, thorough and practical. We maintain high standard of work in all departments. Our courses have received favorable commendation from the College of Commerce, University of Wisconsin. Our school is the only one in the Southern part of the state that is affiliated with the Wisconsin Commercial Educators association, the highest standard of Business Education in the state.

Our Chartier Shorthand

Our Chartier Shorthand can be learned in half the time required to learn any of the older systems and can be written much faster. We have exclusive right from the publishers to use this system in this section.

Our Sudler Rowe Bookkeeping prepared by a live accountant of 25 years' experience is acknowledged by those who are able to judge as the best presentation of the subject of Bookkeeping and Accounting on the market. The success of our graduates proves what a practical system it is. One of our graduates writes recently: "I found the books here kept almost exactly as taught in your system. I found no difficulty from the start. Another in Milwaukee writes: "The manager of this firm gave me two weeks in which to learn the books and $15 a week if I succeeded. I got the $15 per week. It didn't take me much more than two minutes. The Bookkeeping at the S. W. B. C. is certainly O. K."

Our other subjects of Penmanship, Spelling, Business Law, Correspondence, Rapid Calculation, Typewriting, Model Office Practice, etc., are equally modern in every detail.

INVESTIGATE AND THEN DECIDE

It behoves every young man and woman to investigate carefully the school he is thinking of attending. We ask you to call and we shall be glad to show you our excellent equipment, explain our methods, let you talk with our students and by so doing you will be under no obligation to remain. Besides we will not bore you to death afterwards, either by calling on you ourselves or sending solicitors as we never employ any such persons to misrepresent and deceive.

C. you are certain of securing the services of the teaching ability of the best men and women money can engage, the best equipment money can buy and equally certain of securing satisfactory results.
